“ Uncle Jerry played a large roll in my childhood. My fondest memories of him are the nights when uncle Rob and Jerry would show up to play board games with us. It was always a night of laughter and fun. You could always count on them to show up on a snowy night. Mom would make soup or chili along with something sweet and we would all sit around the table eating, laughing and playing games. It was a special time as a child because we got to stay up passed our bedtime. Even as an adult I always knew I could count on him for support and comfort. He was a great man that will be missed by all.
